ACHCA Announces 2017 Fall Forum

Washington, DC – November 1, 2017 –The American College of Health Care Administrators (ACHCA) is expecting over 100 long-term care professionals to attend ACHCA's Fall Forum, November 17-19, 2017 at the Omni at CNN Center in Atlanta, Georgia. Offering 14 continuing education hours of sessions, attendees will have a variety of ways to learn new trends, gather best practices, and gain new insights. The conference sets the stage for post-acute and aging services leaders to discover strategies to enhance their leadership skills and improve the long term viability of their organizations.

The 2017 Fall Forum also includes a dynamic general session. On Friday, November 17, Dennis McIntee will present From Drama Team To Dream Team. This interactive workshop will give you the practical skills you can use today to eliminate all the excuses not only from your team, but every relationship. Because you always produce who you are, the best way to coach the drama out of your team is to become a dream coach. Not a drama coach!

In addition, the exhibit hall will allow attendees to visit with many of the leading healthcare product and service companies dedicated to providing the latest solutions to deliver resident care cost-effectively and efficiently.

Founded in 1962, the American College of Health Care Administrators (ACHCA) is the only professional association devoted solely to meeting the professional needs of today's post-acute and aging services leaders. Focused on advancing leadership excellence, ACHCA provides professional education and certification to administrators from across the spectrum of long term care.
